DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

Claims 1-3, 6-11, 14-18, and 20 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Nykanen (U.S. 2003/0133554).

As per claim 1, Nykanen teaches an API for provisioning services, comprising: discovery transactions that allow an adapter software component to retrieve information regarding services available to a client device from a provisioning application, wherein a service comprises a plurality of content files capable of being installed on the client device (paragraphs 0010, 0011, 0013, 0034); subscription transactions that allow an adapter software component to manage content in service directories, wherein a service directory comprises a plurality of services (0036, 0039, 0040, 0042, 0045); and delivery transactions that allow an adapter to facilitate downloading of data related to services to the client device (0024, 0045).

As per claim 2, Nykanen further teaches that the discovery transactions include a service directory transaction that allows an adapter to obtain information regarding a particular service (0013).

As per claim 3, Nykanen further teaches that the discovery transactions include a service directory discovery transaction that allows an adapter to obtain information regarding a particular service directory (0045).

As per claim 6, Nykanen further teaches that the delivery transactions include an update transaction that allows an adapter to obtain a provisioning update comprising a list of services that should be installed on the client device (0038, 0045).

As per claim 7, Nykanen further teaches that the delivery transactions include a notification transaction that allows the provisioning application to request an adapter to perform an update transaction (0045).

As per claim 8, Nykanen further teaches that the delivery transactions include a delivery transaction that allows an adapter to obtain a link to data, the link facilitating downloading of the data (0045).

Claims 9-11, 14-18, and 20 are rejected under Nykanen on the same bases as claims 1-3, 6, and 7, as the instant claims disclose limitations similar to those of the previous claims.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 4, 5, 12, 13, and 19 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Nykanen in view of Dobbins (U.S. 2002/0066033).

As per claim 4, Nykanen teaches the use of subscription transactions, but does not specifically teach that the transactions include a service subscription that allows a service to be added to a service directory. Dobbins teaches the use of a subscription transaction in which a service is added to a service directory (paragraphs 0097, 0100, 0101). It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to include the ability for subscribers to add and remove services from the directories they access, as taught by Dobbins in the system of Nykanen, given that this concept is well known in the art of service provisioning. Further, the motivation to combine teachings lies in the fact that enabling subscribers to add and remove services as needed further adds to the efficiency of the invention, such that the clients will receive services they desire.

As per claim 5, Nykanen-Dobbins further teaches that the subscription transactions include an unsubscribe transaction that allows a service to be removed from a service directory (Dobbins: 0097, 0100, 0101).

Claims 12, 13, and 19 are rejected under Nykanen-Dobbins on the same bases as claims 4 and 5, as the instant claims disclose limitation similar to those of the previous claims.
